The “Peek-a-Bye”™ Credit Card Security Sleeve

Rear view with Card

This unique patent pending device offers the following benefits

- Limits viewing card to essential information
- Security and Easy to use for end user – Just slip on the credit card.
- “Unique Design” offers promotional space
- Easy manufacture using existing technology and equipment
- Affordable for every business

The design of the “Peek-A-Bye™” security sleeve allows it to slip over a credit card. It will still allow a consumer to use their card in standard card readers while maintaining visual security of the card. The strategically placed windows on the front of the card allow the merchant to verify required information for the purchase. The transparent rear panel allows access to verify the cardholder signature. Adequate space is still available on the front of the card for promotional material. The depth of the sleeve leaves the magnetic strip exposed to facilitate use in standard card readers.
